

150th Anniversary of the Battle of Thompson's Station

EVENT INFORMATION

ABOUT THE EVENT:

This event will comprise living history exhibits, reenactment dramas, historian presentations, weapons demonstrations, and an evening dance—all taking place at Homestead Manor Plantation, on the actual battle ground of the Battle of Thompson's Station, March 5, 1863. Homestead Manor is located at 4683 Columbia Pike, Thompson's Station.

WEEKEND OVERVIEW:

Thursday and Friday, March 7-8:

Participant/reenactor/vendor check-in

Saturday, March 9: All day public event. Gates open at 9 am and activities conclude with a dance from 5-7 pm featuring Civil War-era music.

Sunday, March 10: participant/reenactor check-out

LIVING HISTORY AND DRAMAS:

Participants will be assigned a Living History Exhibit as a "home base", where they will camp and remain posted throughout the day, optionally leaving that site to participate in Dramas elsewhere on the property, and then returning to their exhibit.

Assignments will be given after check-in. If you have a preference as to which exhibits or dramas you'd like to participate in, please indicate so in the "Preferred Role" section on the registration form. Please note that not all requests can be accommodated.
